For a period of over fifty years this Company has promptly met its obligations, without a day's delay, and has ever occupied the position of the

LEADING AMERICAN FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

This position it will continue to maintain, and in the present crisis will preserve and add to its well earned reputation.

Telegraph advices from Hartford, under date of the 24th ult. report the Chicago loss not over three millions; and a Directors' meeting of that day voted to make the Reinsurance Fund intact by assessment of the stockholders. This leaves the Company with a capital of $3,000,000 and over $1,000,000 surplus.

THE OLD MANTEL-PIECE.

I remember the day when grandfather took old Welch's boy into the office, just as well as I remember anything that happened yesterday, though it is sixty years ago. Grandfather was a lawyer—Lawyer Place the folks called him—and he got on well, very well indeed; owned a fine piece of land, and a house that was the pride of Gosstown—where all the handsome dwellings were—and I don't know how much in bank stock and gold besides. And there were always a couple of boys in the office, and now one of the boys had been sent away for idleness, and grandfather was looking for another.

"Would it do to try old Welch's boy?" said he.

"He's looking for a place, and the school-master speaks well of him, and the minister, too; but then you see he is old Welch's boy—that's the worst of it."

"No matter, grandpa," said I, "Try him; I'll go security. I know he's good. Do try him."

You see Walter Welch and I were not quite strangers. He lived in the low part of town—low in every sense—full of the people from the factory, and lying upon the marshes out of which agues came up and shook the poor folks who lived in the damp little houses. And his father was tipsy old Welch, who had killed his wife with cruelty, and was killing himself with rum. And Walter was shabby and poor enough, Heaven knows; but he had a gentlemanly way with him for all, and a good face and a sweet voice, and he had saved my pet poodle from some boys who were going to kill it, and had climbed down the precipice where there was just a foothold between him and death, to get me a flower I had said in his hearing I wanted. And at Sunday school he was the brightest and best boy of them all. And it seemed so hard that the sins of his father should descend upon innocent Walter. And so I pleaded with grandfather, and he, because he had decided to do so, perhaps—for why should he listen to a girl of fifteen—told me, at last, he would hire him.

I can see him as he looked when he came into the office—a tall slender boy, with fair hair and a bright flush of color in his cheeks; as pretty a boy of seventeen as one could meet anywhere, though his clothes were worn and dingy. I can see him sitting at the tall desk writing, an hour after, as though he had been there for ever, and grandfather and old Mr. Ames nodding to each other as much as to say "He'll do."

I can see myself, too, with my hair all in puffs, and with my white muslin frock and kid slippers, sitting before the fire in our parlor afterwards, working at a fruitpiece in floss silk on white satin.

It was the oddest room you ever saw, full of curious things from one end to the other. Grandfather had traveled a good deal, and had filled the house with curiosities. There were pictures and statuettes, and rare China and Chinese idols, and drinking vessels from Turkey, and long Turkish pipes. And bits of Indian beadwork, and a real Persian carpet; and scattered over the ceiling Cupids and cherubs, and festoons of roses, painted there by a French artist who had great talent, they said, though he lived and died without being rich or famous. But the pride of the room was the great mantel-piece, brought from Italy, all covered with carvings, and told some wonderful mythological story. Ah, what a fool I am! There it stands. It was older than grandfather when he had it brought in pieces over the ocean, and it will outlast the baby there in the cradle. And as for not knowing the story, it's the old one I am thinking; for there's Cupid, and a shepherd and a shepherdess, and it's the girl that Cupid is taking aim at. Our hearts are tenderest, perhaps, that is why he wounds them worse. "Men have died, and worms have eaten them; but not for love;" but many a woman has died of love, in good sound earnest, I believe.

I was too young to think of such things then. But after a while I dropped my work, and sat looking at the carvings, as I often did, and thinking of the pretty faces of the shepherdess and shepherd, and of how, through the crack at the back of the shelf, my gold thimble had rolled a week ago, and laid there out of reach among the mortar that held it in its place, though I'd fished for it by hours together. Perhaps Welch's boy might one day get it for me; he was so smart and so kind.

Well, in a week or two I asked him, and he tried, but in vain. It was a day when grandfather and old Mr. Ames were both away, and we had a long, long talk. The nicest, brightest boy he was—the best and dearest boy. I wished that I had a brother like him dozens of times. We were always very sociable after that. He told me some of his troubles, and I felt sorry for him from my heart. It makes a woman love anyone so much more to be just a little sorry. Innocent for him. Childish love it was; but I felt even then it was love all the same that I felt for Walter Welch.

It does not seem much to tell, after all. We grew older, both of us. They said I was a beauty, and grandfather's heiress. Two or three came courting me before I was eighteen, and before that time old Welch had put a new disgrace upon his son by mixing himself up with a robbery. I saw the foolish man taken by to jail, and I cried a little for Walter's sake. He did not forsake his father even then, but went to visit him, and did all he could for him. He was as pale as death could be when I saw him again; but he said not a word about it, and of course I did not. But I wanted—oh! how I wanted to tell him that no one could think less of him for any such misfortune.

It was Garrett Gray who owned the woolen mills, who came a courting me just then. They were a good old family, the Grays, and fine looking, too. Every girl in the town envied me, I do believe, when he walked beside me, or danced with me at the Assembly balls. He made no secret of liking me; he was a man out and out, and I wondered so that I did not like him better; but, you see, Walter was in my mind. And get one man in your mind, there is little room for another.

But all the while he said nothing. He was two and twenty by that time; and had come to be a clerk in grandfather's office, and was regularly studying law. We were man and woman, and if he had liked me as I thought he did once, he surely would have spoken, if it were only a word or two. He was very kind and friendly, but no more, and if those shepherdesses had had eyes to see and tongues to speak with, they'd have stories enough to tell of those days. I hated the thought of being an old maid, as every girl does; but how could I marry any but the man I loved; and he did not ask me. A look now and then made my heart flutter, or a sigh troubled and pleased me—but a girl must wait for words. I waited in vain. And Garrett Gray courting me so warmly, and I, taught as girls must be, that torture should not wring my love from me as long as I was sure it was not returned, tried to seem cold to Walter, and did not mind seeming warm enough to Garrett Gray, for I cared nothing for him. I knew he was poor enough, but I would be rich. And I knew he was old Welch's son, but that made no difference. I pined for a kiss or a loving word from him, as starving people long for bread. The one great joy on earth seemed to me the hope of being Walter's wife. I am so old now, I don't mind telling you the truth; then I'd have died first.

One day we sat together before the fire blazing under the great mantel-piece—grandfather and his partner, and Walter and I. It was uncle's birthday, and we had a little feast, and Walter, just as well thought of after five years in the office as anyone there, had been asked to taste the old wine grandfather prided himself on. And we were talking of what happened in the town and how Dolly Rose was married.

"And Japhet courted her five years," said grandfather, "afraid to ask her the question all the while, and she came near jilting him out of pique; but he's got her after all."

"Served him right if she had jilted him," said I. "If a man loves a girl, let him say so out and out, or else let her not wait for him."

"A man may be too bold sometimes, and presume on kindness," said Walter, "and be bluffed for his pains."

"He'll know her mind, at least," said I, "and she'll know his. It's death to have to wait and wait. I should think so, at least."

I blushed when I said that, I know, and Walter blushed to. I wished I had not spoken. He was silent all the evening after that; but when he left us he shook hands, and kept my hand in his a little while, and looked at me in a way that made my heart beat furiously.

I laid awake all night, and only fell asleep when the sun was rising; and it was so late when I arose that the maid was dusting the parlor, and—awkward thing!—had got a fan half way down behind the mantel-piece. We just saved it, and I scolded her well. I felt out of sorts that day, and scolding came natural.

Oh, if I had not made that speech! I thought. What did Walter think of it? And I asked myself that question more than once, for from that day I never saw him again. I did not go to the office, nor he come to the parlor, and on Saturday grandfather came in to tea, and sat down with a face half puzzled and half angry, and said:

"There's a piece of news for you, Effie, Walter has gone."

"Gone where?" I asked, turning cold.

"Left us," said grandfather. "Effie, there's something queer about this. Have you been hurting him?"

"He never gave me a chance to hurt him, grandpa," said I; and the truth would out then. "If he had—I—I couldn't have hurt him grandpa, dear. He never liked me a bit, though I liked him."

And grandpa said," Ah, Effie, it's dangerous leaving young folks alone together. I wish things had been different, for I like Walter. No matter. Kiss me, Effie."

So I kissed him. We never spoke of Walter, and he never came again—never, never! To me it was as if he were dead; but I could not cry for him as though he had been. And after awhile Garrett Gray made me listen to him, and we were married. And oh, the sin and the shame! I did not love him one bit. I married him just so that Walter might not think that I pined for him.

You could'nt expect much happiness of such a marriage; none came. It was my fault, I suppose, as much as his. We fell out soon, and quarrelled constantly. We had a girl, and a crippled boy who died at five years old, and I loved them dearly, and used to wonder how it was that they both had Walter's eyes. You see that sometimes a woman's children now and then look like the man she loved, whom she never even kissed, rather than the husband she has married; and I blamed Garrett for the fall the boy got, and was hard with him. In the end he ran away and left me to myself. I came back to the house then—grandfather was dead—and brought my little girl. Soon I sent her to school, and then used to sit day after day, and evening after evening, before this old mantel-piece watching cupid with his bow, and the shepherd and shepherdess, and the satyrs down below there, and thinking of the old times and Walter. My hair turned gray early, and my figure shrank, and my face wrinkled. They called me old Mrs. Gray when I was forty, just as they do now.

Do you believe in mesmerism? I do, a little. There was something that drew me constantly to that old mantel-piece, kept me touching it and looking at it—something very strange, as you'll believe when I've told you all.

My girl grew up and married, and came to live with me, and her children climbed about my knee and made me tell them about the figures of the marble there; and in my old age a kind of calm came to me—a sort of happiness, as though I rested; and I looked back on the girl I had been once, and on the woman I had been afterwards, pitying, as though they were other people. Why not? The Effie they had named after me, my grand-daughter Effie, was as old now as when I fell in love with Walter Welch; her mother older than I when I brought her back to my own home, and settled down to my dull, lonely life.

Two weeks ago, Effie came and told me she was going to be married. She was all blushes and smiles. It seemed odd enough to me; but I promised her a handsome gift; and wished her all good wishes, and felt as pleased as her mother did in setting the house in order, and seeing that all was nice and neat. I'm not feeble yet, though I'm seventy-five.

We had new carpets sent from the city, and the great parlor was newly painted, all but the ceiling; and my daughter would have the grand old mantel-piece reset; for the crack behind was a great gap now and it really was in danger of falling. A mason came for the purpose, and we stood, woman-like, watching him. He took the pieces down one by one, and there was the mortar with all sorts of things lodged in it. There was a knitting pin, and here a paper-folder of poor grandfather's, and matches, and a china jar cover, and there was my thimble—my gold thimble, lost sixty years ago. "And there's a letter," said the mason, handing it to me. I looked at it. It was black with dust, and sealed as though it had never been opened. I put on my glasses. My name was written upon it—Miss Effie Place—I knew it, though I had not seen it for all these years—it was Walter Welch's.

"What's the matter dear mother?" said my daughter.

"An old letter, my dear," said I. "It brings old times back, that's all."

And I went away and sat down there by the window, and I read that letter for the first time, fifty years after it was written—read my only love-letter from the only man I ever loved, half a century after date.

"Dear Effie," it began, "you think a man who is worth much should'nt be a coward, even in love. So do I. Therefore I begin as I do. Dear Effie, I love you; I want you for my wife. I never can be happy without you, and if you can make me happy by saying that you like me, for heaven's sake do so, for you can't guess what a condition of mind I am in. I know I'm not quite all I ought to be towards you, and I know how heavy my poor father's disgrace lies upon me; but I love you, and I'll try my best to make you proud of me, if you think of me at all. I cannot even write as I would, but I love you better than Garrett Gray could love any woman, and I think you would be happier with me. If your answer is 'Yes,' please send me one little line. If it is 'No,' don't send anything. I would understand it, and go away. When I have sealed this I will put it on the mantel-piece in the parlor, where you will be sure to find it. And whatever your answer, I shall be always your true and tender lover.

WALTER WELCH."

"But for God's sake try to love me. Try to answer 'Yes.'"

I had'nt cried before for twenty years. But I cried, when I read that letter, like a child. The clumsy maid had brushed it into a crack in the mantel, and never told me; and so all my life had been altered—all this, perhaps, for he had a loving heart—by a switch of a maid's dusting brush, and a crack in an old mantel-piece. And I wonder whether he lives, or is he dead; and whether he ever married. But I would'nt care to have him know the truth now, it's all too long gone by, and we are as much dead to each other as though the sod was over us.

Trouble in New Orleans.

Trouble exists among the Republicans of New Orleans, white and black, which has assumed a very violent and offensive character. The Times says that a violent feud or division has existed for some months past in the Republican party in this State; that one of the parties in this feud has been led by Gov. Warmoth, backed by the State officials and all the enormous powers which, by certain acts of the Legislature, have been concentrated in his hands. The other party has been sustained by the Federal officers and patronage, and by the majority of the colored voters of the State. These two parties were made up of a body of white office-holders, political jobbers and adventurers, and the great mass of the colored voters of the State.

Outside of and opposed to both are nearly all the resident and white population of the State, who own most of the property and pay the taxes. This class has been virtually excluded from all voice in the State Government. The Legislature, made up of the corrupt and characterless adventurers, who have been foisted upon parishes to whose people they are utterly unknown, has employed itself in the enactment of the most shamefully corrupt and oppressive laws, burdening the people with grievous taxes, plundering them in the most remorseless and reckless manner, and concentrating in the Governor, as chief of the party, such powers as were never before conferred on any official in this country. It is unquestionably true that the whole Republican party of this State is responsible for these wrongs and infamies.

It is equally clear that the Democrats and the conservative citizens were incapable, as long as the solid colored vote could be controlled by the Republican party, of relieving themselves and the State from these great oppressions. It therefore became a question of very urgent character whether, when the division took place in the Republican ranks, sound policy and wisdom did not demand a combination on the part of the Conservative citizens with one of the factions to crush each other, and give place to an organization wherein the people who demand reform would have a potent voice. This was the question which addressed itself to the Democratic members of the Legislature and the great mass of our citizens. No party political considerations were permitted to influence the determination of this question. The whole object of inquiry was to decide with which of these factions such a combination could be effected that could give the strongest pledges and guarantees of success in carrying out the main purpose of redeeming the State and reforming its government.

A fight took place in the Legislature, bodies of armed men appeared, and there was all sorts of disgraceful proceedings. On the 21st a handbill was distributed throughout the city, as follows:

"To arms! to arms! to arms! Colored men to the front! The Warmoth slaves at the Mechanic's Institute, pretended to-day to expel Antoine, Adolph, Burch, Wilson, Beaton, Williams, Turenael, Goddes, John Lott and other colored members of the House of Representatives. Warmoth will next attempt to remove Ingram and Antoine from the Senate. Rally on Saturday, at 10 o'clock, at the corner of Rampart and Canal streets, and let those who have dared to trample on your rights as freemen and citizens, tremble until the marrow of their bones shake. Let the cry be, 'Down with Warmoth and his tyrant crew.' Rally! Rally! Liberty or death! Rally!"

Verily, the whites and their beloved black brethren, labor in harmony and love.

The Liberal Republican Convention of Missouri.

JEFFERSON CITY, MO., Jan. 25th.—The Liberal Republican Convention met at the Hall of Representatives at noon and was one of the largest ever assembled in the State.

Judge D. E. Bald, of Grundy county, was elected temporary President, and Colonel Lowder, Secretary.

Judge D. E. Bald made a brief speech referring to the work of the Convention as a grand and noble one. He hoped a Government would be inaugurated, which will command the support of the majority of the American people, in reform and true Republican principles.

Various Committees were appointed, and after a stirring speech by the Hon. C. H. Johnson, the Convention took a recess till 2 o'clock.

Among the lookers-on were several prominent gentlemen from abroad, who seemed to be measuring the extent of the opposition to Grant.

On reassembling, the Committee on Resolutions reported through their Chairman, Colonel Grosvenor, their platform which called forth euthusiastic applause, and a storm of cheers followed the reading of the Resolutions, which were adopted without any dissent.

They are substantially as follows:

The first declares faith in the vital principles of true Republicanism, and recognizing as an established fact the sovereignty of the Union, emancipation and equality of civil rights.

The second demands equal suffrage for all and complete amnesty for all.

The third favors a genuine reform of tariff.

The fourth denounces shameless abuse of public patronage in the interest of any party or faction; demands reform in the civil service; compliments Senators whose courageous course has completed the disclosure of grave misrule.

Fifth—Resolved, That local self-government, with impartial suffrage, will guard the rights of all citizens more securely than any centralized authority.

Sixth—Resolved, That Republicanism makes it specially our duty to expose corruption, denounce usurpation of power and work for reforms necessary for the public welfare. The times demand an uprising of honest citizens to sweep from power men who prostitute the name of an honored party to selfish interests. We therefore invite all Republicans who desire reforms as herein set forth to meet in National Mass Convention at the city of Cincinnati on the first Wednesday of May next, at twelve o'clock M., and there take such action as our Conventions, our sense of duty and public exigency may require.

Colonel Burns then addressed the Convention, after which letters were read from Carl Schurz and ex-Senator Fowler, of Tennessee.

Governor Brown then discussed the resolutions adopted, and was followed by Judge Oliver of Ohio, and J. M. Scovel of New Jersey, when the Convention adjourned.

The friends of the movement appear highly pleased with the prospects developed.

CINCINNATI, January 23d.—Wm. H. Grosvenor, Chairman of the German-American Reunion and Reform Association, send their greeting to your Convention. We are in perfect harmony with your platform and promise to co-operate heartily with your movement. We will and shall do our duty. For the Executive Committee.

CARL STROBEL.

PEN PORTRAIT OF JEFFERSON.—Jefferson was a stripling of seventeen, tall, raw-boned, freckled and sandy-haired, when in 1760, he came to Williamsburg from the far west of Virginia, to enter the College of William and Mary. With his large feet and hands, his thick wrists, and prominent cheek-bones and chin, he could not have been accounted very handsome. He is described, however, as a fresh, bright, healthy youth, straight as a gun-barrel, sinewy and strong, with that alertness of movement which comes of early familiarity with saddle, gun, canoe, minuet and country dance—that sure elastic tread and ease of bearing which we still observe in country bred lads who have been exempt from the ruder toils of agriculture while enjoying in full measure the freedom of and the sports of the country. His teeth, too, were perfect, which alone redeems a countenance destitute of other charms; his eyes, which were of hazel-gray, were beaming and expressive; and his demeanor gave assurance of a sympathetic, inquisitive mind.

Such lads, eager and uninformed, still come to college from honest country homes, in regions where agriculture is carried on upon a scale that allows some leisure to the farmer's family, some liberality of expenditure, books, music and a tincture of art and hospitable habits. How welcome, how dear to instructors worthy of them, are such unhackneyed minds in bodies unimpaired!

THE SIZE OF THE UNION.—It is said that there is only one man who has a correct idea of the size of the United States and he is the man who drove a yoke of oxen in 1850-51 from Maine to California. However this may be, the newspaper remark "few people realize the immensity of our territorial area," is true. There are in the great West eleven Territories, two or three of which are twice or three times as large as all New England; and it is a small Territory that is not at least ten times as large as Massachusetts. Colorado is thirteen times as large as Massachusetts, while Dakota and Arizona are half as large again as Colorado. The eleven Territories, as accurately as can now be ascertained, contain over one billion and a quarter of acres, excelling by nearly two hundred thousand square miles the aggregate territory of the present admitted States of the Union. The Territory of Alaska, containing 390,527,600 acres, is included in the number stated.

SHERMAN ISLAND.—This island is covered with water, every inch of it. The floods washed through the broken levee, but are now rushing out through the flood gates, and by the first of March the ground will be fit to seed. The levee will be enlarged and greatly strengthened during the coming Summer.

European and American Female Apparel.

How shocked would those ladies of our "first society" be, if they knew that the torturing and ill-formed shoes on whose stilt-like heels they tilt and suffer, no Paris shopkeeper would offer to a lady. For more than two years American women, especially young girls, have walked the public streets, with conspicuous chains and lockets, or flaunting bows of ribbon, attracting the attention of every passing gazer, solacing herself by the thought that it was "perfectly French." If so, it was a custom which no French lady would wear on the public pavement. The dress of the French lady is artistic, simple, faultless—faultless often because it is simplicity itself. She may wear brilliant colors in her drawing-room, and in her carriage—never on the street. When she walks she wears black or gray, and it never drags on the ground. When she goes to church, she wears the same colors—is always attired in the simplest manner. This is true also of Italy. In the Sistine Chapel, Rome, no lady can enter unless attired in black, with no covering on her head but a vail of the same hue. What a contrast to the church attire of American women. They are accustomed to think of themselves as perfect saints compared with Italian and French women, yet they enter the house of God as they would a theatre. They don their gayest plumage, hang on all their chains and lockets, take off their kid gloves to show their diamond rings in the sacred temple just as in the Academy of Music. Worse, they stare and comment on each others costumes, and absolutely study the fashions. The same lack of fitness in dress is seen in the utter disregard to age, as well as occasions in the adaptations of dress. The woman of 30 or 40 may be as beautiful as a woman of 20, by her own right, if there is no incongruity between her years and her attire. It is only when the woman of 40 dresses like the girl of 20 that she looks absurd. A French married lady never wears a hat; an English lady only in traveling; an English maiden never at church. Yet everywhere American matrons with faces lined and scarred, may be seen with staring jockeys, set on their gray heads like helmets, befloured and befeathered, and more fantastic than the ones worn by their little daughters of ten. Flannel and linen, and muslin are worthy of their princes and princesses abroad, but are by no means fine enough for the little princes and princesses American. All of which is not French, though to be "perfectly French" has been the alpha and omega in our alphabet in dress.

THE LAST OF WASHINGTON.—In the San Francisco Examiner of January 24th we find the following touching reference to the remains of B. F. Washington, the late editor in chief of that paper:

"STATUE-LIKE.—Yesterday we gazed on the mortal remains of B. F. Washington. His stately form, in health so largely above the average size of men, in death was apparently much greater. All color had departed from his face, his features calm, his eyes closed, his form rigid as marble by the passage of his spirit from its earthly shrine, looked as if a statue had fallen. And so it might have seemed for a longer period; for Parian marble had seldom been chiseled in a fairer type of manly beauty than was possessed by him for whom we mourn. But the wail of anguish struck our ear. It was the cry of his grief-stricken daughters, his long motherless children, who in the lifeless form before them realized that they were fatherless. Friends came and went. All spoke a kindly word of the man who had been so long a power in the State, and whose pen never, even in the estimation of political foes, was accused of sustaining principles or theories opposed to the strictest morality. For over twenty-two years he lived in our midst, and public opinion expressed by the press shows a just estimate of his worth and of general regret at his unexpected death. Peace to his soul."

IMMENSITY OF CREATION.—Some astronomers have computed that there are no less than 75,000,000 suns in the universe. The fixed stars are all suns, and have, like our sun, numerous planets revolving around them. The solar system, or that to which we belong, has about thirty planets, primary and secondary, belonging to it. The circular field of space which it occupies is in diameter 3,600,000 of miles, and that which it controls is much greater. That sun which is nearest neighbor to ours is called Sirus, distant from our sun 22,000,000,000 of miles. Now if all the fixed stars are as distant from each other as Sirus is from our sun, and if the solar system be the average magnitude of all the systems of the 75,000,000 of suns, what imagination can grasp the immensity of creation. Every sun of the 75,000,000 controls a field of space of about 10,000,000 miles in diameter? Such, however, is one of the plantations of Him who has measured the water in the hollow of His hand, and meted our heaven with a span, and comprehended the dust of the earth in a measure, weighed the mountains in scales, and the hills in a ballance; Him who, sitting on the orbit of the earth, stretches out the heavens as a curtain, and spreadeth them out as a tent to dwell in!

SURE CURE FOR NEURALGIA.—The Norwalk Gazette says: "A friend of ours who suffered horrible torture from neuralgia, hearing of a noted physician in Germany who invariably cured that disease, crossed the ocean and visited Germany for treatment. He was permanently cured after a short sojourn, and the doctor gave him the simple remedy used, which was nothbut a poultice and tea made from our common field thistle. The leaves are macerated and used on the parts afflicted as a poultice, while a small quantity of the leaves are boiled down in proportion of a quart to a pint, and a small wine glass of the decoction drank before each meal. Our friend says he has never known it to fail of giving relief, while in almost every case it has effected a cure. It is certainly worth a trial.

COUNTY AND TOWN OFFICIAL PAPER.

WOODLAND, CAL:

Saturday, February 10, 1872.

THE JAPS.—The Japanese are now at Salt Lake, snow bound, on their way to the East.

PROFESSOR AGASSIZ.—Agassiz and party on board, left Pernambuco for Rio Janeiro with the frigate Ticonderoga, January 16th.

ANOTHER CHANCE.—The Supreme Court of the State has rendered its decision in the case of Laura D. Fair's application for a new trial, and granted the appeal.

MAIL ROUTE.—A joint resolution has been introduced in the Legislature asking for a tri-weekly mail from Cache Creek to Capay, in this county. This is a route that ought to be established.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE CONVENTION.—The second annual Convention of the California Woman Suffrage Association will be held in San Francisco on the 13th, 14th and 15th days of the present month.

FEARFUL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—An accident occurred on the Rock Island and St. Louis Railroad, on Wednesday last, by which ten persons were killed outright, and nine burned to death, besides some forty wounded.

RAIN FALL AT SHASTA.—Shasta appears to have been the most favored of all the counties in the State in her rain-fall. The amount reported is nearly sixty-nine inches, which, it is believed, will give an impetus to mining operations in that region such as has not been experienced for years.

STILL BLOCKED.—The Union Pacific Railroad is still blocked with snow east of Salt Lake, and no trains have been through in about two weeks. There is freight en route that left the East two months ago. It is said the road will soon be open again, but we opine that as it depends upon the weather, it is hard to say when the trains will be able to run. No mails have been received from the East in over two weeks.

NEW DISTRICT.—There has been some talk about creating a new Judicial District by taking Yolo from Sacramento and uniting Colusa, Yolo, Sonoma and Contra Costa in one district. The distance from one end to the other of this proposed district would be nearly two hundred miles. The interests of this county will not be subserved by any such arrangement, and the Colusa Sun says that county does not desire it.

THE CONNECTICUT DEMOCRACY.—The Democratic State Convention held at New Haven, Feb. 6th, was the largest ever held in the State. The following ticket was nominated: For Governor, Mr. — Hubbard, of Hartford; Lieutenant-Governor, Charles Atwater, of New Haven; Secretary of State, J. S. Ledman, of Norwich; Treasurer, M.B. Richardson, of Saulsbury; Comptroller, Thomas Sanford, of Reading. Mr. Hubbard was nominated for Governor by acclamation with three rousing cheers.

AFTER STEBBINS.—The Rev. Stebbins made himself very obnoxious at the Japanese banquet in San Francisco, insulting both ex-Governor Haight and Governor Booth, who were present, by his ill-mannered remarks. The Sacramento Bee accounts for the behavior of the reverend gentleman by saying that "when wine is in wit is out," which, being interpreted, means that the learned and eloquent divine was hardly responsible for what he said. The San Francisco Post referring to this insult to the Governor of the State, says: "He had to take some notice of such a direct and brutal insult, and his conduct throughout was that of a dignified and genial gentleman."

CUSTOM HOUSE FRAUDS.—The testimony in the investigation of the New York Custom House frauds discloses a course of iniquity beside the glare of which Tammany pales, from being outshone by the superior enormity of the frauds committed in the name of reform and good government. Verily, all Republican officials are "pure and incorruptible;" but somehow their official conduct does not bear investigation. Soon we shall have the details of this matter and shall lay them before our readers. Late developments of their rascality does not seem to jibe well with the claim set up that "all the intelligence, all the honesty and all the virtue in the country is to be found within the ranks of the Republican party." The always false claim has now been disproved by official investigation.

COUNTY HOSPITAL.—The Mail takes occasion to find fault with the Supervisors because they do not appoint a physician who resides in Woodland to have charge of the County Hospital, instead of Dr. Parramore, who lives at Cacheville, and adds: "we believe the Board can find a good, efficient medical man who will take the office and perform the duties for a much smaller sum. In fact, we know they can," etc. So far as we can learn, the management of the County Hospital is more satisfactory at present than ever before; there is certainly less fault found with it than ever before. For these reasons alone, the Board will not be likely to make any immediate change in the appointment of Hospital Physician. When a change is made, however, we shall most decidedly favor the appointment of a resident physician, and shall not favor much reduction of salary of either Physician or Steward.

A Speck of War.

Complications have lately arisen on the Alabama claims question between this country and Great Britain which may lead to serious results. The telegraph reports considerable feeling in the British Parliament, and that so far as the United States Government is concerned, it will not recede from its position in the matter, but will insist upon compliance with all that has been demanded. Following is the latest upon the subject:

SPEECH OF THE QUEEN.

LONDON, February 6th.—On the reassembling of Parliament to-day, the Speech of Her Majesty, the Queen, was presented and read in presence of all the members of both Houses. The address opens by returning thanks to Divine Providence for the recovery of the Prince of Wales, and thanks are expressed to the British people for the sympathy manifested during his illness. The speech also congratulates the Government and the country on the peaceable relations existing with other powers. Negotiations for securing the continuance of the commercial treaty with France are now in progress, though they have been, so far, unattended with success.

Touching the subject of the Alabama claims, the address states that the first meeting of arbitrators has been held at Geneva, and the respective cases of both parties have been submitted. After reviewing the preliminary proceedings in the matter the address proceeded as follows: "In the case submitted by America large claims were included which were understood on my part not to be within the province of the arbitrators on this subject. I have caused a friendly communication to be made to the Government of the United States."

The present aspect of affairs in Ireland is considered both promising and improving. The decrease in crime and pauperism is also alluded to with great satisfaction.

The remainder of the speech is devoted to the discussion of home affairs, embracing a number of reform measures upon which Parliament is expected to take action during the present session, the most prominent being those establishing a system of voting by ballot, preventing election frauds, and for establishing a proper educational system in Scotland.

DEBATE IN PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, Feb. 6th—Midnight.—In the House of Commons, to-night, the debate on the Washington Treaty was productive of much interest. Mr. Disraeli, with great warmth, at the close of a lengthy speech, stated that the consequence of the recognition of the British Government of the indirect claims would inflict upon the nation a burden greater than would be expected, crippling her resources and fatal to her fame.

Mr. Gladstone, in reply, stated that the Government forwarded to the U. S. Government at Washington, a communication protesting against the claims, stating, at the same time, that the question was one of absolute inadmissibility, not even worthy of any consideration. Mr. Gladstone concluded by saying he sanctioned this course, and hoped the difficulty would be solved by the two Governments in a friendly policy. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed in the House throughout the debate.

In the House of Lords to-night, the arbitration claims were the subject of prolonged debate. Numerous speeches were made, tending toward repudiating indirect claims attached to the Washington treaty by the United States. The speakers were frequently interrupted by loud cheers. Immense enthusiasm was manifested during the entire sitting.

FARMING IMPLEMENTS—PREPARE IN TIME.—Farming implements are likely to be scarce during the approaching harvesting season, says the Rural Press, if we are informed correctly. By the market reports for the past two years we find that very few agricultural tools, particuraly harvesting machinery, have been imported to California; the large dealers in those articles in San Francisco, having two years ago a heavy stock left over on their hands, by reason of the drouth and consequent limited demand, this fact, in conjunction with a depression in prices last year, discouraged new orders. The commercial embarrassments of the old house of Treadwell & Co., which had an immense stock on hand, which was put upon the market in the midst of the season by the assignee, at about 80 per cent. of the cost, caused another serious loss to other holders of this class of goods in San Francisco; as, rather than carry a heavy and unprofitable stock for another season, they sold almost at any sacrifice. This heavy stock of agricultural machinery—which they had to hold over—was one of the principal causes of Treadwell's financial embarrassments; and the season had so far advanced before the red tape of a bankruptcy court allowed goods to be put upon the market, that Brandenstein & Co. (who bought them all on speculation, because it was about half cost) had to hold their threshers, headers and mowers over another year; but the subject has a more serious aspect for our farmers, who have little to do with the profits of commercial speculations, and that is why we allude to the matter now. The coming season promises to be one of the most prosperous for many years for cereals; in short, it will be the great wheat year of this decade. If, then, there is to be a great demand for harvesting machinery of all kinds, and there is not likely to be sufficient to meet that demand, will not the prices go up accordingly? It is possible that the best class of threshers, headers, mowers and reapers may not be found when wanted, for love or money. It would be well for our farmers to look out in time, and be prepared for this possible emergency.

SALE OF WINE UNDER EXECUTION. Asa Fisk vs. Mendessolle & Co. On Wednesday last fifteen packages of wine was sold at Constable's sale, the casks containing from 40 to 300 gallons each. Two tuns containing 300 gallons each were sold to the highest responsible bidder at $16 50 each. As it was quite a stormy day but few bidders were present. Why do not some of our business men take advantage of such sales. Such prices are ruinous, and show badly for the enterprise of our citizens.

THE DIFFERENCE.—While Californians are grumbling over the cold weather, with the mercury in an exposed locality, standing at 40, the good people of Chicago are boasting of the thermometer marking 15 degrees below zero.

Sacramento Letter.

[From our Special Correspondent.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 7th, 1872.

DEAR DEMOCRAT:—It is strange that we have not seen your face for two weeks, but suppose you make your appearance at your appointed season. The mails in the direction of Woodland are in what Samuel Weller would call an "orid bad" condition.

THE FENCE LAW.

We suppose the good people of Yolo county have their law in reference to this matter so perfectly regulated that the only interest felt in the warm and able debate on the trespass law in the Senate, was that of sympathy or curiosity. Well, as a matter of news, it was defeated, that is, a general law was defeated, by a vote of 30 to 8.

HUSBAND AND WIFE.

Mr. Finney introduced into the Senate a bill regulating the holding of property, both the property acquired before marriage and that accumulated subsequent thereto. This bill was the entering wedge to still further advances in the Woman's Rights question. But our friend Farley, who, by the way, is generally right in his views on questions of principle or policy, made a good humored attack upon the bill. He showed that there was no need for a part of the act and opposed the rest as against good morals and good policy. Section 3 read that "the earnings of the wife shall not be liable for the debts of the husband, but shall be under her immediate control and disposition." This section was amended and then passed, but after the friends of the bill thought they had it safe, Farley moved to strike out the enacting clause, which carried, to the great disgust of Finney and Tompkins, and the displeasure of their strong-minded coadjutors. So the women must bear their burdens for a time longer.

THE SOCIAL EVIL.

A bill was introduced by Mr. Wand to license houses of ill-fame and also authorizing and compelling visitations of physicians and generally regulating them. There was a lively little debate on the reference of the bill, but it was finally referred to the Committee on Public Morals. The friends of the bill wanted it to go to the Committee on Hospitals.

EMIGRATION AID SOCIETY.

Mr. Wand has also introduced a bill for the purpose of encouraging emigration to this State, and asks the neat little sum of five thousand dollars per month or sixty thousand dollars per annum for this purpose. We do not believe in this thing of forcing or enticing emigrants to our State while we have thousands of idle men in our midst, as we now have. It is a scheme to get labor at a reduced price. As we have once before remarked, labor, like capital, will seek that country where it can command the highest prices, and when needed it will always go.

ARDENT SPIRITS TO MINORS.

Mr. Tuttle has introduced a bill which passed the Senate without any objection, or at least but three negative votes, making it a misdemeanor to sell or give away liquor to any boy under sixteen years of age.

PERMISSIVE POLICY.

A bill has been introduced into the Assembly allowing the question of whether licenses shall be granted for the sale of spiritous liquors to be decided by a vote of the people. This is not the prohibitory law; they call it the "permissive policy." This will cause a discussion of the question throughout the State.

SUPERVISORS OF YOLO COUNTY.

Senator Minis introduced an act to authorize the Board of Supervisors of Yolo County to approve and certify claims against Swamp Land District No. 18. It is a long bill and is framed for the purpose of authorizing the payment of certain claims for work done by contractors upon work afterwards abandoned. Of the merits of the bill we are not intelligently informed.

STANFORD'S LEVEE.

Last evening ex-Governor Stanford gave one of the most expensive and elegant parties ever given in Sacramento city. He sent out, we learn, about seven hundred invitations. He has the grandest and most capacious mansion on the Pacific Coast, if not in the United States. He is very rich, but it puts us in mind of the story of the miller and his hogs. The miller was showing one of his customers his hogs. They were immensely fine and fat. The farmer looked at them, remarking, "they are fat hogs, but whose grain have they been fed upon?" Stanford is fat, but upon whose grain? was it not the people's?

THE CODE.

A bill was introduced to enact the penal portion of this great work, for it truly is a great work, taking the whole Code. It is not only a great work but is one of immense value to the State at large. We have a good chance to know, and are free to testify that we are astonished that such order could have been brought out of such confusion; such system out of such contradiction; such clearness and perspicuity out of such obscurity. The Bee and Record, both Republican papers, admit in well written articles the great utility and ability of the work. This Commission have done their duty most faithfully and most patiently and deserve the commendation of the profession and the people. INDEX.

PETITION.

TO THE HONORABLE THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS of the County of Yolo:

The undersigned petitioners respectfully represent—

First, That they are the owners, by Patent or Certificate of Purchase, of more than one-half of the land hereinafter described, and that the same is Swamp and Overflowed Land.

Second, That they desire to reclaim the same and that the same is susceptible of one mode of reclamation.

Third, That said land is now part of Swamp Land District No. Eighteen (18), and is capable of independent reclamation.

Fourth, That they desire the said land set off from said Swamp Land District number eighteen (18), and erected into a separate district.

Fifth, That all of said land has been sold, and it is all in the County of Yolo.

Sixth, The description of the land, the subject matter of this petition, is as follows; being the whole of sections two (2), three (3), four (4) and five (5), and the southeast quarter of section six (6), the east half of section seven (7), and sections eight (8), nine (9), ten (10) and eleven (11), township eight (8) north, range three (3) east, Mount Diablo base and meridian, and containing five thousand six hundred (5,600) acres.

Seventh, That your petitioners each own the number of acres set opposite his name, hereunto affixed.

Your petitioners therefore pray, that after due proceedings had, you hear the subject of this petition and find and determine that the statements herein are correct, and that no land is improperly included or excepted from said proposed district, that your approval be noted on this petition and such note be signed by your President and attested by your Clerk; and that all such further action be taken and things done by your Honorable Board as will best accomplish the purposes of your petitioners.

Dated December 6th, 1871.

Board of Supervisors.

Board met on Monday 5th inst., at 2 P. M.—all the members present.

Resignation of J. B. Dungan, Justice of the Peace of Grafton Township, tendered and excepted by the Board. On petition of citizens of said Township, Milton Dale was appointed Justice of the Peace in place of Dungan, resigned.

Constables elected in Washington Township having failed to qualify, A. F. Ritchie was appointed Constable in said Township for the ensuing term.

On final hearing of petition for road from Hagle's ranch to Hawk's Ferry, the report of Viewers being fatally defective, the petition was dismissed.

The petition for the extension of road from C. W. Reed's to David Megowan's lower line dismissed on the same grounds.

The petition for road from McGregor's to Hagle's dismissed on the same grounds.

Claim of Robert C. Briggs for damages—Supervisors Megowan and Roberts appointed to visit and examine premises and report to Board on the first Monday in March.

A number of residents on Cache Creek having expended a large sum in reparing breach in embankment of said stream near road from Woodland to Knight's Landing, in order to preserve property and roads from destruction, presented a petition for partial renumeration, and were allowed the sum of $400 from the road fund.

Pursuant to law, the Board proceeded to select and return 330 jurors, to serve for the ensuing year as grand and trial jurors in the County and District Courts, and deposited the ballots in jury box No. 1.

The petitions respectively of R. S. Carey, Henry C. Kirk, J. I. Underhill, Harvey Wilcox and Joseph A. Glide, for the formation of swamp land districts, set for hearing on March 12th at 10 A. M. and ordered published in THE YOLO DEMOCRAT for four weeks next preceding the hearing.

Board, after reading the minutes, adjourned to March 4th.

LAND PAYMENTS.—The following land payments were made to County Treasurer Keane during the month of January: On School Land location No. 754, by Amos W. Gable, interest, $32; No. 795, H. C. Gable, interest, $32; No. 779, W. H. H. Dinwiddie, $25.02; No. 29, Hiram Wade, $16; No. 4, George W. Wolf, $32; No. 6, Chas. H. Wolf, $16; No. 264, Chas. Simmermaker, $8; No. 162, Chas. G. Total for School lands, $704.79; for Swamp lands, $364.09; grand total, $1,068 88.

BURGLARY.—On Thursday night unknown parties entered by the back door of Stegall's premises, and then attempted to enter his bed-room, but in their endeavors to turn the key in the door, pushed it through and it fell on the floor. The noise awoke Stegall, who, in reaching for his defensive weapon made some noise, thereby alarming the burglars. They escaped without being recognized. Where is the night Marshal?

DISSOLVED.—The medical firm of Peirson & Jackson has been dissolved, and each of the parties will hereafter have separate offices, as will be seen by their cards, Dr. Jackson retaining the one in Odd Fellows' block, and Dr. Pierson having opened an office in Eaton's building, a few doors east of the Postoffice. The accounts of the firm have been placed in the hands of Mr. D. B. Good, with whom parties are requested to settle.

NEW FRONT.—Mr. L. Dryfus is putting in an elegant new front to his saloon, with modern "push and pull" doors, and plate-glass windows. It will be one of the handsomest fronts on the street when completed. The inside is to be renovated also to correspond.

INCORPORATION.—The bill for the incorporation of the Town of Woodland passed the Assembly on Wednesday.

Interesting Epistle.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT:—We send you for the benefit of your Disciples, the FIRST EPISTLE OF THE BOOK OF KNIGHTS.

And it came to pass on the second month and the third day of the month, the same being the seventh day of the week, that there was a great stir in the city of Knights, and many people were congregated at the warehouse of one whose surname was Reed:

When lo and behold, a boat drew near the wharf, and there came one from there whose name was Long, and this same man brought with him one of the fair daughters of the City of Lincoln, whom he had taken to wife. And there was much joy in Knights over one Owl that repented—more than over ninety and nine Cow Clux.

And after they entered the inn of one Hoyt, and when they had supped they retired to their own room.

And it came to pass in the long hours of the night there was heard a rustling like unto a mighty wind, and there came forth the sound of music.

And he said unto his hand-maiden, let us arise and go forth, for the music is good to our ears.

And when they had come forth they beheld the Band of Gideon, and the bridegroom said unto them, at divers times, and in many places, I have heard much music, but ye, oh Brethren of the Gideonites, excel them all.

Then Gideon, whose locks were like scarlet, arose and said: Welcome, Brother of Knights, and thou, oh Daughter of the Valley of Lincoln; may the cup of thy joy be full; may thy days be days of pleasantness, and all thy paths be peace.

Then the bridegroom said unto them: All the days of my life have I hooted with the Owls in and by forbidden paths, but now have I forsaken them; may their days be few in the land the Lord their God giveth them.

And he said unto the keeper of the inn: Bring wine and cake that we may eat, drink and be merry. And they all with one accord said: Amen!

And after they had eaten and drank, one of the chiefs arose (whose surname was Turner) and said: Blessed are the ways of him who walketh in the paths of wisdom and forsaketh the ways of the transgressor and the Owls,

Then arose John, and said unto them: I would we were all like unto this man, for my heart is exceedingly sore and troubled.

Then sayeth Martin, of the seed of Abraham: Lo these many years have I wandered from my father's house; I have tabernacled with the Owls, but now have I beheld Dove's eyes, and my heart is far from me.

Then spake Richard and said: Oh, my soul, my head whirleth like a top, and my feet lead me estray.

And lo and behold, it was the third hour of the morn when the Grand Sanhedrim (Albertus) arose and said unto them: Joy and peace be with my brother and sister; fail not; weary not in well doing.

And they all departed, each unto his own house.

SCRIBE.

JUSTICE'S COURT.—FEB. 5th, J. H. THOMPSON, J. P.—Our well known and estimable citizen, John Doe, through either good fortune or bad luck became first exhilerated, and then so exhausted that he violated the 7th section of the 4th ordinance of the Board of Trustees of the Town of Woodland, to the great determent of the peace and dignity of the inhabitants of said Town. Wherefore he was brought before his Honor, Judge Thompson, on the complaint of John Webber, Deputy Marshal, and pleaded guilty to the offence charged. John being an honest, good natured and hard working Teuton, was let off with the lowest fine that could be imposed, and with an admonition from the court, departed on his way rejoicing, promising to sin no more. And we therefore forbear giving his true name.

Feb. 7th—Suit commenced by Frank Fourgouse against B. Mendessolle & Co., for services rendered—Attachment issued and levied. Frank Fourgouse vs. Wm. Maume, for services rendered—Attachment issued and levied.

On the 6th inst. R. Roe, Esq., another of our well known citizens, was complained of by John Webber of a similar offence, and being brought into court pleaded guilty, was fined as in the case above, and discharged. We fear Richard will sin again, and if he does his name will be published.

Feb. 8th—That other John Doe having been detected by that same keen eyed detective in violating the same ordinance, pleaded guilty before the court, and was, in default of payment of the lowest moneyed fine, remanded to the custody of the Marshal with instructions to board him for twenty-four hours at the expense of the Town.

RAIN.—Pluvius is supplying a sufficient amount of rain this year. During the last week a large quantity has fallen, and the streams and tules have risen considerably. Farmers have been forced to suspend operations temporarily. There is yet time enough to get most of their land seeded before the first of March, which is considered in good time for maturing in a wet season.

CONCERT.—J. M. Wood and Miss Ella Moran, blind vocalists and musicians, assisted by the best musical talent of Woodland, will shortly give a public concert, the programme for which is now in rehearsal. The public will be glad to hear this, and will, no doubt very generally attend the concert.

PROBABLE REPEAL.—Enough Senators who were elected as Democrats, will vote for the bills repealing the State Paper and Litigant Acts to secure their passage.

REWARD OFFERED.—A correspondent writing from Cottonwood, Feb. 1st, says "there are numerous citizens there who would like to see the man that drew the prize in the Woodland Gift Concert, or lottery, and if you can find one that was not interested and send him to Cottonwood he will be liberally rewarded."

REMOVED.—Nangle, the Anatomical Boot Maker has removed his shop to the Good Templars' building, opposite Roberts' livery stable and west of the railroad. He will make fashionable boots to order that will fit like a charm. He respectfully invites the patronage of his old customers and the public in general.

MINING STOCK MANIA—EXCITEMENT ON THE SAVAGE MINE.—Yesterday was another lively day on California street, says the S. F. Chronicle of the 6th, and the brokers were all as busy as possible. The greatest excitement prevailed and the wildest rumors were started. Savage was, of course, the feature, and opened at $200 on the street against $165, its closing price of Saturday. The story of the strike in the mine was reported in a thousand different forms, and no reliable information upon the subject is accessible to the general public, except that workmen are shut up in the mine, and their communication with the outer world is cut off. By the insiders and those who claim to know, it is said that the strike is of an independent body of ore, quite distinct from any previous development, and of richness unparalleled. We are unable to give any information as to what part of the mine this strike has been made in; and the only knowledge professed upon the subject is by those who say it is a continuation of a body in the Hale and Norcross, the existence of which is known only to the managers. The public can believe as much or as little of it as they please. In the morning Board some 1,000 shares of Savage changed hands at from $200 to $210; in the afternoon it opened at $225 but declined to $215 before the close. The bears are beginning to rally a little, and the feeling gains ground that the value of the strike has been exaggerated.

Change of Base.

Confidence is restored. We shall have an abundant harvest this year, and the glittering gold will be plenty—Providence supplies all things well—and we should be content. The firmament has been darkened, the serene skies have been disturbed, the rain has fallen in torrents, the soil is moistened as deep as desired, the earth is now verdant and beautiful, the grain is coming up. So will real estate in Woodland. Now is a splendid time to buy. I now offer for sale land in parcels from usual sized town lots to half-acre tracts—if you want more land take more lots. I have lots in alfalfa, lots with vines upon them, lots with orchard trees in bearing, lots in wheat, a house and lot, and a barn and lot: also a four-acre lot fenced and in fine condition to sow with clover. If you wish to eat fruit from your own vine and fig tree, come and buy a lot of me. There are, I have no doubt, some who desire a home in Woodland, to come and educate their children; others who want clover lots, for their cows, horses, pigs, chickens, etc., and still others who want lots for speculation. Come and buy of me; my lots are well adapted for all of these purposes. Now is the golden opportunity. Woodland is centrally located, a thriving place and will make a much larger town. I need all cash down, but am willing to accommodate, and will give time if desired, for I want everybody to have a home. Come and see me. If you cannot come on account of bad roads, or are very busy putting in your crops, or for any other reason, write. You will find me for the present cheerful but needy. Stand ye not idly by, for he that whiles his time away will rust out and be forgotten. Shakespeare says there is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune. I say procure a lot while prices are at the lowest ebb. "This is a flood season," and prosperity to the country is rapidly flowing. Avail yourselves all, before it is too late, and float on to prosperity, peace and happiness, and when the night air serene pervades the earth, sleep ye all under your own house roof. Act wisely and procure a home.

Believe me truly, NATHAN ELLIOTT,
January 27th, 1872. ja27

"There was a frog who lived in a spring,
He caught such a cold that he could not sing."

Poor, unfortunate Batrachian! In what a sad plight he must have been. And yet his misfortune was one that often befalls singers. Many a once tuneful voice among those who belong to the "genus homo" is utterly spoiled by "cold in the head" or on the lungs, or both combined. For the abovementioned "croaker" we are not aware that any remedy was ever devised; but we rejoice to know that all human singers may keep their heads clear and their throats in tune by a timely use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, both of which are sold by all druggists.

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is no new preparation for the public to experiment with; its success is unparalleled for restoring gray hair to its natural color, promoting its growth, and producing new hair on bald heads.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Special Notice.

INDIGESTION is the cause of nine-tenths of all diseases the living machine is subject to! Give tone to the stomach and digestive organs, and you will save more than half in your doctor's bills. Dr. Healey's Celebrated BIT. Bitters are recommended by all physicians to DYSPEPTICS and for ALL COMPLAINTS of the LIVER AND DIGESTIVE ORGANS. See advertisement in another column.

Sinking Slowly.

Diseases that progress rapidly to a crisis are not the only ones to be dreaded. Canker or dry rot does not blast a tree as suddenly as a stroke of lightning, but unless arrested destroys it as certainly; and in like manner chronic debility, although it does not kill with the swiftness of yellow fever, is as sure to sap the the springs of life eventually as any acute disease, if not checked by invigorating medication. There is something inexpressibly touching in the spectacle of premature decay. Languor, pallor, emaciation, depression of spirits, and a distaste for exertion, are its ordinary symptoms, and they should be promptly met by tonic treatment. The best invigorant and exhilerant that can be administered in a case of this kind is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The stimulating principle of the preparation rouses the dormant energies of the system, and the strengthening and regulating properties give a permanent and healthful impulse to the vital forces thus brought into play. The failing appetite is re-awakened, the process of digestion and assimilation are quickened, the quality of the blood is improved, the secretions become more natural, and every organ that contributes to the nourishment of the body undergoes salutary change. By these means the repair of the physical structure is effected and its health and vigor restored. In no class of diseases has the beneficent operation of the Bitters been more marked and striking than in those characterized by general debility and nervous prostration. Ladies afflicted with these ailments find in this most wholesome of all tonics and correctives the safest and surest means of relief. It is strong to restore and powerless to injure. Such is the uniform testimony of "clouds of witnesses."

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

JUDGE S. HEYDENFELDT says: "My attention was called to it about eighteen months ago, when I had been suffering with rheumatism for more than a year, and had failed to find relief from other remedies. The YERBA SANTA relieved me entirely in two days. Some ten or twelve cases of Rheumatism, two cases of Gout and two cases of Neuralgia have been relieved within my immediate knowledge." R. H. SINTON says: "I fully concur with Judge Heydenfeldt in regard to the curative powers of YERBA SANTA. I have myself used it, and take pleasure in recommending its use to those afflicted with Rheumatism in any of its forms." T. J. JENKINS, M. D., (Physician to Butte County Hospital,) says: "I have used YERBA SANTA for some years in my private practice as physician. I have found it invaluable in cases of Chronic Rheumatism, and of much benefit as an alterative BLOOD PURIFIER and tonic." FRANK MATHEWS, of Oroville, says: "Some years since, I was a martyr to Rheumatism, crippled in hands and feet, unable to move except with crutches, at all times suffering great pain. I was induced to try YERBA SANTA. I soon experienced great benefit from its use. I am at the present time a strong and healthy. YERBA SANTA. I recommend all who are afflicted as I was to try it." CHAS. WALDYER, of Cherokee, Butte county, states: "For many years a sufferer from Rheumatism in its most painful type I sought relief in vain until I was induced to try the YERBA SANTA, when I found perfect restoration to health. I have remcommended it to my many friends, and in all cases a perfect, a speedy cure was the result of its use." J. R. BOSKETT, of San Francisco, says: "I had for three years been afflicted with the Rheumatism, to such an extent that in all that time I was unable to do any work. I was at last induced to try YERBA SANTA; after using two bottles I was completely cured, and am now as well as I ever was in my life." M. H. DARRACH (County Clerk of Butte county,) says: "I have seen much of the beneficial effects of YERBA SANTA in Scrofula, also in Salt Rheum, Rheumatism and Neuralgic affections. I believe I know of no instance where it has failed to cure." YERBA SANTA completely restores the system when impaired by disease, revives the action of the kidneys, and radically cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all eruptive and cutaneous diseases. It is PURELY VEGETABLE, being made from an herb indigenous to California. It is therefore peculiarly suitable for use by Females and Children, as a Blood Purifier and Renovator. YERBA SANTA is for sale by all dealers in family medicines.

Shameless Fashions.

If women lecturers would turn their attention, for a season, to the reformation of women instead of wasting time and energy in the futile attempt at transition of gender; if they would but join in a crusade against the shameless fashions that enslave and disfigure the sex, instead of crusading about against man's despotism, and conjured wrongs which exist only in a deranged and perverted imagination, it would be far better for the sex, and much good might be accomplished. We call attention to the following forcible language, forcible from its very truthfulness, which is from the London Telegraph. We ask our "strong minded" lady friends to read it; and after reading, resolve to abate the curse that is disfiguring their sex, despoiling the human form of the beauty given it by its Maker, and what is worse, robbing woman of all true modesty and truthfulness, transforming her into a walking, living deception:

"Paris has learned nothing, forgotten nothing, and she sends out to-day styles of attire as shameless in their immodesty, vanity, prodigality and defiance of true feminine grace as anything which scandalized the last years of the Empire. She avenges herself on the modest German woman with a book of fashions which is calculated to ruin all moderate revenues, to put chastity and sobriety to scorn, and to drive even Queens into Courts of law. Those prodigious trains, those senseless appendages, that huge sham mass of dead hair, which no longer so much as affects to be natural; the countless flounces and furbelows, scrolls and rushes, which are the negation and death of drapery; the hats and bonnets which have ceased to be more than a ludicrous caprice; the piled-up passe-menterie and costly inartistic trimmings—all these with high heels, breeding corns and bunions; black lead under the eyes, causing early blindness; and a tout ensemble which would make modest women blush, if poudre de perles allowed it—are what we got from Paris, where so little has survived except the curse which every honest heart prayed to see die."

Here is a field of labor for "strong minded" women far more deserving of their efforts—of far more consequence to the human race than the empty privilege of voting at elections, and mingling in the demoralizing whirligig of corrupt politics.

And in this connection we would say to the "weak minded" men, there is room for improvement on your side of the house. All of your homage is paid to the ostentatious dressing of the help-mate of man. Money is furnished through various channels to keep the idol of your heart in idleness that she may wear the extreme of fashion. If your fortunes are ample, great will be the display, and if meagre the attention is too often turned to dishonest means to make the show. When men become sensible beings, women will have less excuse for the vagaries of fashion.—Masonic Mirror.

PRISON REFORM.—At a conference of the State Prison Commissioners with the joint Legislative Committee on State Prison, ex-Governor Haight renewed the recommendation originally made in his executive capacity to the Legislature, that a permanent Board of Directors, serving without salary, be appointed to supervise the management of the prison, and that a resident Warden be chosen by them, to serve during good behaviour, if found thoroughly capable. We concur with the author of this excellent recommendation that its adoption is a necessary prerequisite to any radical reform in State Prison management. With a permanent Board of Directors carefully chosen, and serving on honor, and a Warden separated from the influences and accidents of party politics, we may hope that all measures necessary to improve the control and discipline of the convicts, to enlarge the prison and make it self supporting, will be carried out carefully and honestly. There is no propriety at all in making the Lieutenant Governor reside at the prison as Warden, except when he is acting as President of the Senate; and there is still less propriety in filling the office of Warden with a mere politician or lawyer, who has evinced no fitness for the peculiar duties of the position, and usually goes to them with aversion. We earnestly hope the Legislature will change the system of prison control as suggested, and lay broad the basis of a thorough reform.—Bulletin.

DON'T FRET.—"I dare no more fret than to curse and swear, said John Wesley. One who knew him well said he never saw him low spirited or fretful in his life. He says of them: "To have persons at my ears murmuring and fretting at everything, is like tearing the flesh from my bones. By the grace of God, I am discontented at nothing. I see God sitting on his throne and ruling all things." If every one was of John Wesley's spirit, it would revolutionize the world. Christians lose all their wayside comforts, and dishonor their Master by their fretfulness over their little troubles. Some, who can bear the great sorrows of life with a martyr's faith and patience, are utterly overthrown by some trifling accident. The temper is an unruly steed, which must be kept in hand almost every moment.

LAND FOR RAILROAD PURPOSES.—According to a tellegram from Washington, dated January 18th, it is officially announced that the land concessions made by Congress to States and corporations, for railroad purposes, etc., are as follows: Estimated quanties embraced in the limits of grants—total, 27,460,031 acres. The estimated quantity which companies will receive from these grants in 1872 amounts to 739,430 acres. Number of acres certified patented up to June 30th, 1871—18,995,907 acres.—Green's Land Paper.

THERE are more uses in a loaf of bread than are dreamt of in our philosophy. Thus, while a number of men were dragging the river at Detroit, recently, for the body of a man who had drowned, an Italian proposed a new, and to us a very novel way of finding it. Taking a loaf of bread, he put a quantity of quicksilver in one end, and threw it in the stream. It went rapidly down with the current for some distance, when it suddenly stopped, described a small circle, and sank like a plummet. The Italian then told the dragging party that they would find the body at that place. And they did.

UTILIZING THE APPLES—CIDER VINEGAR.—N. P. Woodworth of Stone Point, says the Russian River Flag, has a cider mill of his own construction, with which, by the aid of a man and horse, he can make three hundred gallons of cider per day. Woodworth converts his cider into cider vinegar, and ships it to San Francisco.

Plantation Bitters
S. T.—1860—X.

This wonderful Vegetable Restorative is the sheet anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid, it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

Lyon's Kathairon,
For Preserving and Beautifying the Human Hair, to Prevent its Falling Out and Turning Gray.

A well-preserved Head of Hair, in a person of middle age, at once bespeaks refinement, elegance, health and beauty. It may truly be called Woman's Crowning glory, while men are not insensible to its advantages and charms. Few things are more disgusting than thin, frizzly, harsh, untamed Hair, with head and coat covered with Dandruff. Visit a Barber and you feel and look like a new man. This is what LYON'S KATHAIRON will do all the time. The charm which lies in well placed Hair, Glossy Curls, Luxuriant Tresses and a Clean Head, is noticeable and irresistible. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the great discoveries of modern science, few are of more real value to mankind than this effectual remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast trial of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually control them. The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that CHERRY PECTORAL will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence; and it is unwise to be without it. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, CHERRY PECTORAL is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep. No one will suffer troublesome Influenza and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.

Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toil is spared in making every bottle in the utmost possible perfection. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER.

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

Sold by all Druggists, and Dealers in Medicines.

Buckingham's Dye.
FOR THE WHISKERS.

As our Renewer in many cases requires too long a time, and too much care, to restore gray or faded Whiskers, we have prepared this dye, in one preparation; which will quickly and effectually accomplish this result. It is easily applied, and produces a color which will neither rub nor wash off. Sold by all Druggists. Price Fifty Cents.

A Most Efficient and Pleasant Tonic.

These Bitters are prepared from the most choice and wholesome herbs and roots, and have given universal satisfaction wherever tried. Thousands of desperates have found relief through their use, and physicians recommend them for the cure of all diseases of the blood and liver, and irregularities of the digestive organs.

Headache, Biliousness and Constipation, General Debility and Loss of Appetite, arises caused by derangement of the Stomach, Liver and other functionaries of the system. The IXL Bitters have been successfully used and are warranted to alleviate the sufferer in all the above cases.

CERTIFICATES.

MESSRS. H. ESTEIN & Co:

Gentlemen: I take pleasure in stating that agreeably to your wish I have carefully tested and examined the sample of your IXL Bitters, which you sent me, and find it not only an agreeable Bitters, but also one that cannot fail to be beneficial as a tonic and promoter of Digestion.

G. HOLLAND, M.D.

CITY AND COUNTY HOSPITAL, San Francisco, June 29th, 1871.

I have carefully examined Dr. Henley's IXL Bitters, and have failed to detect anything which could injure even the most delicate constitution. From the composition of the Bitters, as far as I am able to determine it, I should judge that the IXL Bitters must be a very efficient remedy in Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and similar complaints, being composed of a number of vegetable drugs which are principally used in diseases of that nature, and are of the greatest efficiency in their cure.

P. H. ENGELS, M.D.,

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE, San Francisco, July 21st, 1871.

MESSRS. H. ESTEIN & Co—Gents: I have made a careful examination of your IXL Bitters, and have found them entirely free of deleterious mineral substances. Yours, etc.,

CARRIAGE AND WAGON MANUFACTORY!
CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.,
Opposite Gas and Water Works,
WOODLAND, CAL.

LIVERYMEN, FARMERS AND TEAMSTERS

Will find my make of BUGGIES, SPRING and LUMBER WAGONS, the best in any market for their use.

REASONS WHY:

BECAUSE they have as good if not the best reputation at home. Each Wagon is perfect in all its parts.

BECAUSE my prices are as low as the lowest for first-class work.

BECAUSE I can furnish the highest home testimonials as to their durability and lightness of draft.

BECAUSE none but the best and most experienced mechanics are employed in their construction.

BECAUSE they are built upon scientific principles, combining the greatest strength with lightness of draft.

BECAUSE wherever introduced they are generally preferred by Liverymen, Farmers and Freighters.

BECAUSE they are made in a very DRY CLIMATE, and from that fact are far superior for service to those built in more moist or damp parts of the country.

BECAUSE I give rules for taking care of carriages.

First—The carriage-house should be apart from the stable, as the ammonia arising from horse manure will in a very short time destroy the varnish on a carriage, and then the owner ignorantly charges the carriage maker with using inferior varnish.

Second—In washing a buggy cold water should be used freely, so as to remove the dust and mud before using the sponge and chamois skin.

Third—Never turn the hose under or on the seat, for the water will loosen the canvass and glue, and cause the corners to give way and the body to go to pieces.

Fourth—To preserve the wood and save expense, the carriage should be kept thoroughly painted and varnished.

Fifth—I am better prepared than ever, to Paint, Ornament and Varnish Carriages, Wagons, etc. I have in my employ the best of buggy painters, and use none but the best articles of paints, oils and varnishes; the above in connection with my Paint Shop and Varnish Rooms, which are as good if not the best on this Coast, being hard finished and free from dust, I can, and have turned out as smooth, clean and nice finished jobs as can be done in the State.

Sixth—Those wishing to get their buggies, carriages, etc., repaired and painted, will do well to call at my shop and examine my superior advantages over other shops. I am willing to abide by the injunction, "by their works ye shall know them." I am willing that my work shall praise me; I ask no other endorsement. This endorsement I have had in past years; this I expect to merit and maintain in the future.

THE "DREADNOUGHT" SAFE,
Manufactufactured by the
Tilton-McFarland Safe Manufacturing Company,
95 and 97 Liberty Street,
NEW YORK,
The only Company manufacturing this

Burglar Proof Safe.

In introducing this BURGLAR-PROOF SAFE to the American Public, the Manufacturers offer a Safe, not burglar-proof merely in name, but one which may be surely relied upon to defy all the efforts of the most accomplished burglars for a longer period of time than they can ever have to operate upon a safe.

There is no other safe in the market which, by means of the most approved appliances, may not be opened by skilled burglars in from six to ten hours of uninterrupted attack.

The Dreadnought Safe,

It is admitted by scientific and practical men, will resist for all time the uninterrupted attack of skilled burglars, provided with the most modern appliances which can be carried or introduced into any Bank, Vault or Counting-room, as no equal power can be brought to bear in any such place as to overcome the strength and combination of the material used and the mode of construction.

POWDER or NITRO-GLYCERINE cannot be introduced into it. WEDGES cannot be employed to open it. The Oxy-hydrogen blow-pipe only opens the way to new and insurmountable difficulties before which the boldest burglars would shrink in despair. Drills, even though diamond-pointed, cannot penetrate its walls. It is impossible to drive in a bolt so as to make an aperture for introducing explosives, as no bolt in the safe passes entirely through the walls, and no bolt penetrates through the outer shell. The position of the bolts, their construction, size, and the way they are inserted, all combine to add to the difficulty and perplexity of the burglar who attempts to open the safe.

BAPTISED IN FIRE.
THE CHICAGO PHENIX!
A Universal Newspaper.

READ THE FOLLOWING!

A popular weekly paper for the times, embracing the leading features of those journals destroyed by the terrible conflagration, and combining just such a corps of writers as will give the public all the news of the week, in a condensed compilation of the leading journals of the nation and the world.

A Truthful Record.

The PHENIX will be the most truthful and reliable recorder of incidents and facts concerning the great fire, ever published.

Accounts of the Fire.

It will contain only such accounts as are vouched for by reliable witnesses, and will correct the erroneous and fabricated statements of sensational writers.

Chicago and the News.

It will, for a time be devoted especially to the past, present and future of Chicago, besides being the most complete weekly newspaper in the world.

Fireside Companion and Newspaper.

Its columns are devoted to News, Commerce, Science, Literature Art, Drama, Music, Humor, Pastime, Poetry, Fashion, Society news, and enough of Romance to make it a most desirable fireside companion, as well as the most reliable and complete newspaper for the business man in the counting-room.

Beautiful Illustrations.

It will be illustrated with engravings taken from Photographs of the Chicago Ruins, instead of sketches, "By One Special Artist" who was not "on the spot;" and thus give a series of PERFECT VIEWS, not obtainable elsewhere, and the first number will contain the only correct map of the burned city.

Happy Hours.

That beautiful literary journal, "HAPPY HOURS," whose publisher was the first to issue a paper to meet the public demand, after the awful fire, has been merged into the literary department of the PHENIX, which will embrace the contributions of more than sixty of the most popular writers of the day.

A Special Feature.

The PHENIX will contain, as an especial feature a more complete record of incidents and results of the late terrible fire, than can be found in any book, paper or other publication in the country. So numerous and inaccurate have been the accounts sent forth, that something reliable and readable is eagerly sought at this time, and the PHENIX will fill the bill.

A Paper for the People.

The PHENIX is the cheapest paper in America, being an eight-page, forty-column weekly, at only two dollars a year; in fact it shall be the paper for the people and the times.

The First Number.

The first number will be issued on Saturday, November 11th, and will be the paper wanted by everybody, as a record worth preserving or sending away, and for its accurate illustrations.

Its Basis.

It is a consolidation of other journals, and therefore on a solid foundation, continuing their former circulation.

New Subscribers.

To any person who gets us three new subscribers, we will send the PHENIX for one year free, or one of the beautiful prize, steel plate engravings worth $2.50.

Premiums.

For the purpose of rapidly increasing our subscription list before the close of the present year, we will give to every person who subscribes for the PHENIX during the month of November, a beautiful steel plate engraving, worth $2 50, half a dollar more than the price of subscription. No such opportunity was ever before given, and probably never will be again. Avail yourself of it. Engravings will be promptly and safely sent by mail or delivered at this office, as subscribers may wish.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!
DR. GIBBON'S DISPENSARY,

No. 632 Kearney Street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, Weakness, Impotency, etc., etc. Skin diseases of years standing, and Ulcered Legs, etc., successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON

Has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 632 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Seminal Weakness

Produces with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves or rattling chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, pimples and various eruptions about the face, hectic flushes, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained, you should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure.

Cure at Home.

Persons at a distance may be cured at home, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicine promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use. By inclosing $10 in coin, in a registered letter, through the Post Office or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

A package of medicine will be forwarded express to any part of the Union.

Persons writing to the Doctor will please state the name of the paper they see this advertisement in.

Private entrance on Commercial street.

All communications strictly confidential.
